2021 ELMS ENTRY LIST REVEALED!

43 CARS ON THE GRID

The European Le Mans Series has once again set the standard for a continental endurance series with 43 full season entries across the three classes and six of the most challenging circuits in Europe.

Once again, the ELMS top class is the largest LMP2 grid in the world outside of the 24 Hours of Le Mans with 16 cars going head-to-head to become European Champions. The LMP2 category will also feature a new title, with the Pro/Am trophy being contested by the seven entries that feature at least one bronze competitor in the driver line up.

The LMP3 class has expanded to 17 cars in 2021 with 13 teams challenging for the 2021 title, with Ligier and Duqueine battling to see which chassis manufacturer will be dominant this season.

LMGTE will feature 10 full season entries, the largest grid since 2014, with three iconic endurance racing brands - Ferrari, Porsche and Aston Martin - making this season the most eagerly anticipated for many years.

The 2020 championship winning teams - United Autosports (LMP2 + LMP3) and Proton Competition - return to defend their hard-won titles.

The winners of each class will not only claim the right to be called European Champions, but they will also receive an automatic invitation to the most famous race in the world in 2022: the 24 Hours of Le Mans. In total, in 2021 five invitations will be granted to the top ELMS competitors: two invitations for the first two LMP2 teams, one for the LMP3 champions and two for the LMGTE champions and the runner up.

The ELMS continues to provide the best stage for drivers and teams wishing to compete at the highest levels of endurance racing. Whether it is to compete against the very best in Europe or for those looking to progress to the FIA World Endurance Championship or compete in the 24 Hours of Le Mans.

The 2021 European Le Mans Series promises to provide some of the best racing action anywhere in the world. You don't want to miss a second!

2021 ELMS REGULATION

What's new in the 2021 ELMS regulation?

Let's have a look to the main amendments that have been made for the coming season:

- Tyre manufacturers (Art 6.5.2)

As previously announced, from 2021, Goodyear will become the sole tyre manufacturer for the LMP2 class, in addition to the LMGTE category.

In LMP3, Michelin stays the dedicated tyre manufacturer.

- LMP3 Tyre allocation (Art 6.5.4)

An additional set of tyres have been allocated to the LMP3 cars. The teams will now be able to use 4 sets of tyres instead of 3 the previous seasons.

- LMGTE driving times (Annexe 5)

The driving time for the LMGTE crews comprised as followed, Bronze/ Silver/ Silver have been updated. The Bronze drivers pairing with two Silver drivers will now have a minimum driving time of 1h30 instead of 45 minutes the previous season. This means that now, no matter the line-up, all the Bronze drivers in LMGTE will have a minimum driving time of 1h30.

- Classification for the LMP2 Pro/Am line-ups (Art 15.2.1)

No amendments have been made concerning the LMP2 line-ups and the basis of the rules remain the same as in 2020.

A new classification has been created, reserved for the Pro/ Am line-ups in LMP2 (i.e every line up with a Bronze driver).

A dedicated LMP2 Pro/ Am podium will be organised at the end of each race.

At the end of the season a trophy will be awarded to the first Competitor of the LMP2 Pro/ Am classification (team and drivers).

PRESENTATION 2021

2020 MICHELIN LE MANS CUP

Since the first season in 2016, the Le Mans Cup has provided the perfect first step on the endurance racing ladder for teams and drivers. The emphasis has been on giving the amateur / bronze drivers the maximum amount of track time to improve their racing skills on some of the most challenging circuits in Europe.

The 2021 calendar features five 2-hour races, with the highlight of the season being the two 55-minute races held on the full 13.6km La Sarthe circuit on the same weekend as the world famous 24 Hours of Le Mans.

This year the full season grid will exceed 30 cars, with 24 LMP3s being joined by 6 GT3s and 1 entry in the Innovation Class, the H24 hydrogen powered car.

The reigning team champions, DKR Engineering and Iron Lynx, both return to defend their hard won titles, with 2020 GT3 Drivers Champion Rino Mastronardi also defending his title with a new co-driver.

There are a number of firsts this season, with the first Icelandic team and driver and the first driver from Zimbabwe, making the Michelin Le Mans Cup one of the most internationally diverse series in the world with representatives from Europe, Africa, North America, South America, Asia and Australia.

Seven new teams will also make their MLMC debut in 2021, six in LMP3 and one in GT3.

The 2021 Michelin Le Mans Cup promises plenty of action both on and off the track, so follow the series that is the starting point for the future stars of endurance.
